A PATRIOTIC ASSOCIATION,

Society of Sons of the American Revo

A patriotic organization, to be known

EB "The Society of Sons of the Amer-Ican Revolution," was organized yesterday afternoon at the residence of Admiral David D. Porter, No. 1710 H street northwest. The association will affiliate with similar organizations scattered all over the country. Admiral Porter occupied the chair and Dr. F. O. St. Clair was made sec retary. The former made a ringing little speech, full of patriotism, on taking the place of presiding officer. He said the work the association was engaged in was a noble one, and "as the men we represent stood shoulder to shoulder, so let us stand—let us be worthy of the blood that courses in our value."

After the adoption of a constitution, permanent officers were elected as follows: Admiral D. D. Porter, president: General A. W. Greely, first vice-president; General Marcus J. Wright, second vice president; Dr. F. O. St. Clair, secretary; Dr. G. Browne Goode, registrar: Dr. J. M. Toner, historian; Colonel Marshall McDonald, treasurer. The president and secretary were

A Talented Officeholder.

From the Baltimore Herald, William Marine is not only a sublime orator, a humorist and an expert business man, but a state-man, a soldier and a poet as well. LOCAL STOCKS.

Transactions on the Washington Stock Exchange-News and Gossip, Although the sales on the exchange yesterday were not large the prices realize: were decidedly higher. Columbia National Bank, which within a few days sold down as low as 178, and which later sold at 180 to 183, brought which later sold at 180 to 183, orought yesterday 185 for five shares. For Capital National Bank 119‡ was paid for eight shares. This is thought to be too low for the stock of a bank which is doing as well as the "Capital." Its deposits are about $400,000. The profits are beginning to loom up and its ex-penses are very moderate. The only sale of insurance stock was of five shares of Arlington at 190. This is probably the highest price yet paid for the stock of this prosperous and ably managed company, and yet the near approach of the half yearly dividend, falling due about the middle of May, of $4 per share makes the price not unreasonab The Electric Light, which pays the same dividend as the Arlington, is the only stock paying an eight per cent, dividend which has not yet attained to a price commensurate with its earning capacity.

Besides there are risks to which an insurance stock is liable, from which the Electric Light stock is exempt, and yet because the public has not yet been educated up to an appreciation of the cducated up to an appreciation of the latter investment it has recently sold for $78 per share less than the Arlington. It is the same with bank stock, they too are liable to peculiar risks and yet several on the stock list paying but 8 per cent, are quoted at vastly more than double the quotation for Electric Light stock. The obvious conclusion is that a big rise must shortly take place in the last-named security.

place in the last-named security.

But there was quite a turn in the market yesterday for this stock, as fast as it could be offered at 112, the closing price of Saturday, it was taken, and after 15 shares sold at 112½ there were no further offerings at any price. The 40 shares sold yesterday are believed to have been taken for a prominent officer of the company who has recently expressed fears that too much might be disclosed of the prosperity of the com-

There were no sales of Graphophone stock yesterday. A free seller, and one who has materially aided the bear movement, an honest man, by the way, whose word is worth something, candidly admitted that he had sold out. Not from a desire to sell, but in offering stock down he had parted with his holdings.

Reference is sometimes made to the fact that, although the Graphophone Company has not paid a dividend, its stock sells for a premium. This is considered an anomaly. The reason the stock is worth a premium is because of he small capital of the company. When the organization was first effected its projectors had little conception of the projectors had little conception of the real value of the invention and placed the amount of the capital at but $600,000. It is said that Jay Gould, when shown the instrument and informed of the small amount of its capital, remarked in substance: "Why, this invention, in my judgment, is capable of carning good dividends on five millions of dollars."

A clerk to a prominent Senate com-mittee, a man of mature judgment, who says the graphophone saves him daily six hours of hard work, remarked recently: "I think the day is not distant when the Graphophone Company will be able to divide dividends in a year equal to its whole capital of $600,000." One of the most conservative national banks in the city yesterday loaned 114 per share on fifty-nine shares of graphophone stock.
